The Pentathlon was progressing all through elimination stages for qualified athletes.

HARDING TO MEET LEAGUE ISSUE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Marion, O., Aug. 16.—The big feature of the front porch campaign of Senator Warren G. Harding, Republican nominee for president this week promises to be the gathering here on Thursday of past and present members of the Ohio state assembly.

The senator indicated that he intends to employ the occasion for the delivery of an address that will probably be the most important since his speech of acceptance.

It is not unlikely he will then meet the league of nations issue as raised by Governor Cox, his Democratic opponent—shall the American people go into or stay out of the league?

By his advisors the senator is said to be content silently to permit Governor Cox for the present to challenge his attitude on the league, being convinced when the right opportunity presents itself to him he will be able more clearly to define his position regarding the country's foreign policies to the satisfaction of the American people.

The senator planned to spend the day quietly receiving callers who are daily increasing in number and in going over his personal mail. He expects to hold another conference tomorrow with Republican Chairman Will H. Hays, who is due here again, and to discuss the political situation with which he is keeping in close touch, with other Republican leaders who are scheduled to come here during the week.

ARSENAL WORKERS THREATEN STRIKE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 16.—Four thousand arsenal workers employed at Frankford and Rock Island arsenals threaten to "strike for the public good."

They belong to unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

According to R. Cornnick, representative of the arsenal workers, they are not making demands based on any of the usual union grievances.

"If they strike, it will be with the sole object of protecting the people's interests," Cornnick said today. "All they are asking is the right to save government money. The basis of the trouble is the opposition of the general staff of the army to the workers' council plan."

This plan, which at the time of its inauguration in the Rock Island arsenal, attracted wide attention as an experiment in industrial democracy, was recently discontinued by the men themselves following the dismissal of C. A. Cook and E. J. Esperingen, two of the leading employes' representatives at the Rock Island arsenal.

The men now in the Rock Island arsenal refuse to have any dealings with the commanding officer.

Refusal to reinstate these discharged union men, the workers claim, means that the general staff will have succeeded in preventing cooperation by the workers in the policies announced by Secretary of War Baker in the utilization of the arsenals.

A New Poughkeepsie Bridge.

The Poughkeepsie Star states that representatives of the Central New England Railroad Company have let it known unofficially that it must soon build a new bridge across the Hudson river from Poughkeepsie to Highland because the present bridge was not built for the heavy traffic of today, and that when the railroad abandons the present structure it will be worth only so much scrap iron, therefore it would be willing to sell the bridge to the state at a more than reasonable figure to be used as part of the state highway system.

THREE BILLION DOLLAR SHIP SALE

Benson Announces That 1,502 Vessels Will Be Sold to Americans at About $175 Per Ton on the Instalment Plan—Gigantic Operations of Shipping Board.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 16.—Plans for the sale of the merchant vessels now owned by the shipping board and their operation by private owners was announced today by Rear Admiral Benson, chairman of the board, in "a statement of policy" in accordance with the provisions of the Jones Shipping act.

The vessels owned by the board, and which are to be disposed of to citizens of the United States, are valued at approximately $3,000,000,000. The sales of the various vessels will be held on a competitive basis and payment may be made in small instalments.

The vessels will be sold on the basis of ten per cent cash with five per cent payments every six months for two years after which the remainder of the price must be paid in instalments within a period of ten years.

"After a careful survey of the current operating reviews, costs of operation, competitive conditions which now exist, and the financial and general economic situation, the board devised the plan for the creation of the United States merchant marine, operating by private ownership under the merchant marine act," Admiral Benson declared.

The vessels purchased by the private owners are to operated under the supervision of the shipping board. When fifty per cent of the purchase price has been paid, the purchaser takes title to the ship and the board holds a first mortgage lien against the vessel.

The profits made from the current operation of the vessels sold by the board are limited to 15 per cent for divdend distribution among stockholders. An interest rate of 5 per cent per year will be charged by the board for all deferred payments.

"All revenue desired from operation are to be vested in a controlled or supervising agency and the instalments provided for, except the initial payment, shall be taken therefrom," Admiral Benson's statement declared.

When the vessels have been taken over by the purchaser, upon the payment of 50 per cent of the price, the board will release all control over the bottom except for the fixing of its route and the maintaining of berth under the order.

The average price of from $160 to $175 per deadweight ton is fixed by the board as a minimum price they will take for the steel vessels (coal burners) now in their possession and from to time bids will be advertised for the sale of the various vessels which are to be disposed of The minimum price for oil burners reached from $175 to $185 per deadweight ton

"In every case the board will insist upon full and satisfactory evidence of the financial ability of the buyer to carry out his contract and meet his financial obligations as they become due," the statement declares.

"Proof as to the nationality of the purchaser in compliance with the merchant marine act of 1920 will also be insisted upon."

The total seagoing fleet affected by the order was on July 1 composed of 1 502 vessels of 9,359,000 deadweight tons The vessels are in every part of the world. Of the steel vessels operated and owned by the board, 615 are operating from North Atlantic ports, 62 from South Atlantic ports, 184 from gulf ports, 133 from Pacific ports, 74 in coastwise service, 63 between foreign ports and 121 without specific port designation.

At the close of the last fiscal year, June 30, 273 vessels were operating from New York, 123 from Norfolk, 101 from Baltimore, 75 from Philadelphia, 28 from Boston and five from Portland, Me.

PONZI'S AGENTS ARE UNDER FIRE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Boston, Aug. 16.—A drive on the agents of Charles Ponzi, $15,000,000 "get rich quick" financier, began today. Charles Rittucci first of the Ponzi agents to be haled into court, was called before Judge Harry Davis at Plymouth today to answer a charge of obtaining $200 from Antone Silpa under false pretenses.

Plans for Ponzi's release on bail continues to go forward. Ponzi expects to be freed under $50,000 bail on the state warrant, containing 53 counts of alleged larceny. He is now held under $25,000 bail on the federal charges of using the mails to defraud His counsel is prepared to furnish the full $75,000.

Seven more arrests of persons connected with the Old Colony Foreign Exchange Company are expected as a result of the finding by the police today of $19,000 more in checks, alleged by them to indicate that the men connected with the company intended to divide the money and flee. The company, as a rival of Ponzi's, took in about $200,000. Nearly half of that amount is missing, the police say.

Charles M. Brightwell, the president, and other officers are still in jail in lieu of bail. Two more involuntary petitions in bankruptcy were filed in the U. S. District Court today against the Old Colony Foreign Exchange Company.

CREEK CLAIMS ANOTHER BATHER

Miss Alma Campbell, aged 22 years, residing on Staten Island, was drowned in the Roudout creek Saturday afternoon at Rosendale, where she had gone three days before to spend a two weeks' vacation.

Miss Campbell and a number of other boarders decided to cool off by bathing in the creek about 1:30 in the afternoon. She had been in the water only a few minutes when she stepped in a deep hole and cried for help. Before her companions could reach her, she had been carried down stream in the rapid current and did not re-appear. The body was recovered about six o'clock in the evening. It is thought that she may have been seized with a cramp or become otherwise affected as the result of bathing too soon after eating.

Miss Campbell was a daughter of Lincoln Campbell, who resides on Staten Island, and was employed as a stenographer and typist in New York city. The body was taken in charge by Coroner W. Norman Conner of this city, who took the remains to Staten Island today.

PET BULLDOG BIT MRS. PRICE

Sunday afternoon while Mrs. John Price of No. 157 Washington avenue was playing with her pet bull dog the animal suddenly turned on her and fastened his fangs in her throat. Fortunately her husband was in the room at the time and by choking the dog managed to get the animal to release his grip, but not until the dog had inflicted a nasty wound in Mrs. Price's neck.

The Prices have had the dog since it was a puppy, and this was the first time it had ever bitten any one. She sat on the floor playing with the dog and placed its two forefeet on her shoulder. As she did so the animal lunged forward, gripping her on the right side of the throat.

Dr. John F. Larkin was summoned and attended her. Today she was resting comfortably. If her husband had not been in the room the dog would undoubtedly have killed the mistress.

This morning Mr. Price brought the dog to the city hall and had it placed in the gasocutor. The Prices have only been residents of Kingston for several months, coming here from New York. The dog was a pure bred white American bull.

HOMES SOUGHT FOR YOUNGSTERS

The monthly meeting of the State Chaarities Aid Association was held at the office of the county agent at 74 John street, last Friday afternoon.

The agent told about some children whom she is very anxious to board in good homes.

The little children are far better off when boarded in good private homes where they can live the same kind of lives and receive the same intimate, individual care that they should have in their own homes. The home is accepted by all as the normal and best place for children to be brought up in. Why may not "dependent children" have the advantages of such homes?

It has been found that many of our criminals were brought up in institutions.

The Ulster county agency wishes to rear good citizens but finds great difficulty in finding good women who will help it by boarding the county children.

The agent also told about the two children who had come to her care since the last meeting, one an unusually bright little girl, for whom she wishes to find a good home, and one a small baby.

The little baby was left on the porch of a house in Saugerties town. While the agent is trying to find out who committed such a crime as to desert this six weeks baby, she is boarding it in Kingston. Thanks to the good people of Kingston, who so generously responded to her request for clothing, this baby is well clothed as well as cared for by a kind boarding mother, the kind whom the agent longs to find more of.

Russian troops who have fought their way into the very gates of Warsaw are meeting with stiffer resistence from the Poles. According to today's version of today's soviet war office communique the Russians have captured the great fortress of Novo Georgievsk, 18 miles north of Warsaw.

Berlin reports that the Russians also have occupied the former German fortress of Thorn, which is in territory allotted to Poland by the allies.

A United States naval squadron has been ordered to the Baltic.

Premier Lloyd-George announced in the House of Commons that General Wrangel, leader of the anti-bolshevist forces in south Russia, has been warned about making any reports on the Russian situation, unless on his own responsibility.

Paris, Aug. 16.—"The battle at the gates of Warsaw is favoring the Poles," it was announced at the Polish legation this morning. The Polish legation stated that the British and French missions are remaining in Warsaw and denied reports that 300,000 residents of Warsaw have fled.

Washington, Aug. 16.—Battling desperately in the defense of Warsaw, Poland has a fighting chance to repel the soviet armies and prevent the occupation of the capital, according to dispatches received here today and officials of the state and war department are watching with the most intense interest.

Early dispatches indicate that the Polish armies, with their backs to the wall, are fighting more desperately than ever and officials here are hopeful that their renewed spirit may forestall the fall of the capital.

Latest advices from the charge of the American legation at Warsaw reported that American officials in Warsaw are prepared to leave the city whenever the Polish government decides upon evacuation.

Officials here feel that the conference at Minsk will not be productive of results until the fighting before Warsaw has taken a turn one way or another. Vigorous defense of the capital by the Poles will bring the quickest results from the Minsk conference, officials believe.

Paris, Aug. 16.—The Russians have captured the important Polish fortress city of Novo Georgievsk, 18 miles west of Warsaw and have reached the Vistula river at that point the soviet war office announced in a communique wirelessed from Moscow today.

The text of the communique as given out by the French government follows:

"In the region of Vladimir Volynski the Poles are making counter attacks.

"The Reds have captutred Novo Georgievsk. We are approaching Novo Minsk. Novo Minsk is 20 miles east of Warsaw. French military experts believe that the Russians have already occupied it.

London, Aug. 16.—Official announcement that the Russians have crossed the frontier into east Prussia capturing Soldau, 68 miles northwest of Warsaw was contained in a soviet war office communique received by wireless from Moscow today.

The text of the communique, as given out here follows:

"We have captured Soldau. There is fierce fighting on the Vkra river and in the sections of Novo Georgievsk and Izgerz. Some prisoners were taken.

It should be noted that there is a discrepancy between the versions of the communiques given out in London and Paris. According to the Paris communique, the Russians have captured Novo Georgievsk. The communique given out in London quoted the Russian war office as saying that there is fierce fighting in the region of Novo Georgievsk. The communiques which are wirelessed from Moscow, are picked up by French and British government stations and then given out by the respective governments.

ATTACKS ON JEWS AND CATHOLICS

Books and Circulars From Abroad Accuse Them of Plotting to Influence Voting Here This Fall and of Trying to Overthrow Social Order of World—American Legion and Anti-Defamation League Combating Propaganda.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—(Special.)—Evidence of a foreign conspiracy to inject racial and religious issues into the impending presidential campaign has been uncovered in the United States through the activity of several officers of the American Legion.

Two religious sects, Catholics and Jews, are the principal objects of attack being jointly accused of a plot to overthrow the existing social order and seize control of the world.

Russell G. Creviston, director of organization of the American Legion, has ordered all the documents transmitted for investigation to the Anti-Defamation League, a national organization for combating racial and religious prejudices, which maintains headquarters here.

For several weeks an inquiry has been in progress; and Adolf Kraus, president of the Anti-Defamation League, announced today the league's decision to give the matter publicity.

"Despite the fantastic nature and manifest absurdity of the charges," he said, "the propagandists have succeeded in gaining a rather wide hearing among the uneducated classes of England and other European countries."

"This propaganda comes anonymously from abroad. In Europe's present disturbed condition, it appears especially desirable that the American public have the fullest possible information concerning it."

Chiefly the evidence in possession of the League consists of books and circulars originally written in Russian and translated and printed in England.

The funds from which the propaganda is being financed, according to advices received in New York from Berlin of an investigation in the German Senate are being supplied by Prince Salem and Count Behr, the leader of the conservative party.

The individual in whose name the documents are being circulated among the various departments of the American Legion, signs himself "Frazier Curtis, formerly of the Lafayette Escadrille." But efforts to establish "Mr. Curtis's" connection with the French service thus far have failed; nor has the League been able to identify him otherwise.

One of the pamphlets recently disseminated by "Mr. Curtis" from London, purports to reveal that Jewish financiers had obtained control of the Democratic and Republican parties, and called upon the members of the American Legion to nominate Gen. Wood "on a straight anti-Jewish platform." General Wood has offered his co-operation to the American Legion to overcome the evil effects of this propaganda. "I regret exceedingly," said the general, "that the circular has been circulated. I have done everything possible to build up a spirit of national solidarity and to prevent the rise of racial or religious animosities."

It appears that the agitation has not attained as yet its full intended scope; for among the publications most lately circulated from London is a pamphlet seeking to involve the Catholic Church and Germany, assisted by the "International Jew" in a plot to subvert the League of Nations—a variation of the propagandist's original theme.

"The precise motive behind these exhibitions of insanity" said the President of the Anti-Defamation League, "is difficult to define until its origin is fixed, and an investigation is now being made to that end. There seems to be little doubt, however, that most of the propaganda has a common source. A series of attacks now being published in a middle western weekly, owned by a rich manufacturer with political aspirations, have the same general background as the propaganda sent out from abroad, and if there is no connection between the manufacturer's advisers and the agency which is deluging the American Legion with its literature, certainly their minds are working in an astonishingly similar way."

Perhaps You Are, Too

A friend of mine was worn out running around trying to buy a particular something-or-other.

Hours had been spent, also strength and temper, and the desired article had not been found.

I asked if a try had been made at such and such a store.

The reply was "No, of course not, they don't carry such things."

I disagreed. We went together and found what was wanted.

My friend said: "How did you know?"

"Easy," I replied. "They advertised them last week."

Without seeing the joke, she said: "I never have time to read advertisements. I'm too busy."

Perhaps you are, too. Many people are too busy to take time to save time, trouble and money. They buy by chance—and hard work.

Reading advertisements is more than a time-saver; it's a good, safe investment in information concerning the best things the market offers you.

ASK U. S. TO HELP POLAND

Citizens of Polish Descent Here And In 100 Other American Cities Pledge Loyalty And Plead For Aid For Land of Birth That Bolshevism May Not Overrun Europe.

Over one thousand people, nearly all American citizens of Polish descent, gathered in the school hall of the Church of the Immaculate Conception on Delaware avenue Sunday and adopted a resolution of sympathy for Poland in her desperate struggle against the Russian Bolshevist armies. The resolution affirms the loyalty of these citizens to the United States and urges upon its officials the necessity of extending moral and material aid to Poland that it may not have the soviet system of government forced upon it and become a stepping stone by way of which "Red" hordes may overrun Europe.

Similar meetings were held in 100 American cities Sunday. The resolution adopted here was today sent President Wilson. Vice-president Marshall, Speaker Gillett, Senators Wadsworth and Calder, and Congressman Ward of this district.

The text of the resolution follows:

Whereas, Poland, which has stood for nine centuries as the bulwark of Christianity and civilization of western Europe against the barbarians of the east, is again expending the blood of her sorely tried people and her last resources in a desperate attempt to hold the onward sweep of reborn Russian Imperialism; and

Whereas, once more her torn cities and her wasted fields are prone beneath the feet of the invader, and her children, outnumbered, without arms, hungry and wearied by years of war and destruction, are fighting bravely to stem the tide of destruction that today threatens to destroy the fabric of world civilization; and

Whereas, we, American citizens of Polish birth and descent, gathered here in this solemn moment, are mindful of the fact that this, our beloved country, was the first to declare officially and solemnly for an independent and united Poland; and

Whereas, we have noted with pride and profound gratitude that our government of the United States, maintaining its high ideals with consistency of purpose and righteousness of resolve, did address itself in a note dated August tenth, 1920, that it "believes in a united, free and autonomous Polish state, and the people of the United States are earnestly solicitous for the maintenance of Poland's political independence and integrity," and that "from this attitude we will not depart, and the policy of this government will be directed to the employment of all available means to render it effectual;" and

Whereas, Poland, from the very inception of her existence as an independent state, driven to armed resistance against the continued attacks of Bolshevist hordes, could not conclude an honorable peace, which she ever desired, and in her armed resistance was advised and encouraged by the allies to hold back the advance of the Bolsheviki and to fight without pause a defensive war for her very existence in the face of unjustified charges of imperialism, and is now facing the most terrible and critical moment in all her centuries of triumph and sorrow; and

Whereas, the Polish government and Diet has pledged self-determination to all bordering peoples and the Polish soldiers had never advanced with the ambition of annexing populations, desiring their own rule but merely to protect their native land from invasion; therefore be it

Resolved, that we, as American citizens and as friends by blood and the heritage of ideals of these people of Poland, whose symbol has been through the ages "Equal with Equal," do hereby solemnly pronounce our heartfelt gratitude to the president, the government of the United States and the American people, and do call to the attention of our fellow citizens: That Poland has sent to this country 4,000,000 of her sons and daughters; that her children have done their full share in upholding the doctrines of freedom, that have made these United States great above all other nations; that during the world war they gave of their lives and of their substance to the utmost; and that they are united as one in support of the ideals of liberty for which the republic of Poland is now fighting alone and for which the sons of Poland had fought so valiantly in the armies of America; and be it further

Resolved, that at this gathering we pledge, as American citizens, to our government our loyalty and announce our willingness to make every sacrifice to uphold our government to the farthest limit in its endeavor to preserve the freedom of humanity; That the United States government in keeping with the declaration of the secretary of state in view of the impossible terms and conditions laid down by the Bolsheviks extend to Poland further moral and such immediate material aid as will strengthen the position of the Polish government and make possible the conclusion of an honorable and just peace, and that we announce to the republic of Poland in its hour of agony and distress our sincere sympathy and our heartfelt support to the end that the republic of Poland may once more stand forth as the victor for the civilization and democracy against the disorders of the East.

Signed under instruction of those present.

REV. FRANCIS LESNIEWSKI, Chairman of Meeting.
PETER CWILL, Secretary.

Major Michael J. Filbich, American Military Attache at Warsaw, has resigned his post to give his entire time to the organization of a Polish unit to fight against the Bolsheviks, according to a report from Warsaw. Major Filbich, whose home is in Brooklyn, New York, was appointed military attache to Warsaw in July of last year. He saw active service in the World War as a lieutenant in the American artillery and won his promotion to the rank of major.

Was Impatient.

Rose had been told that Aunt Lily was going to have a baby brought from heaven for her to play with, and she was much pleased and excited over it. After dinner in the evening she climbed upon a chair to the telephone and asked central for the number which she had learned. When she heard her aunt's voice over the phone she called loudly: "Oh, Aunty Lily, has your baby come yet?"

Now the "Flivver" Airplane.

The perfection of a small, simplified airplane with a purchase price and upkeep within the reach of the average man, has often been attempted in both Europe and America. One of the latest American attempts has resulted in the completion of a little monoplane, says Popular Mechanics Magazine, that measures only twenty-five feet eight inches in span, weighs only 350 pounds when empty, yet is very satisfactory in performance. The single-seat body is of the monocoque, shell type, with the four struts of the pylon rising in front of the cockpit. Bracing wires stretch from the pylon to eight points on the spars of the right and left wing. Ailerons are of the wing tip, unbalanced variety. A twin cylinder, opposed engine drives the machine, giving it a maximum speed of seventy-five miles an hour with a load of 250 pounds.

The Unmistakable Cockney.

Lady Georgiana Peel tells some good stories in her "Recollections," one concerns her father-in-law, General Peel.

He was at a banquet in Paris. Mistrusting his capability of conversing in French, he talked during most of the dinner to a neighbor who he knew liked airing his English; but after a time he made up his mind he must talk to the silent French gentleman on his left.

He gathered his French together, and hazarded a remark: "Quelle chaleur monstrueuse!" he said, with many distinctly foreign ejaculations.

The man bent towards him confidentially. General Peel braced himself to understand. "Ain't a patch on our Guildhall," was the whisper that reached him with an unmistakable accent.

Woman Question Again.

One day Karl Edwin Harriman made a pilgrimage to General Wayne's Connecticut farm and on the last lap of the journey took a jitney. The driver had his wife on the front seat with him and Harriman noticed later that it was the wife who collected the fare. As they traveled the editor spoke about the author.

"It's just like George Weston's impudence to write stories about women," said Mrs. John. "What does he know about women? Ain't even married!"

"That ain't no argument," said the jitney driver, sadly, "maybe he knows too all-fired much about 'em to git married."

Thorough Job of Destruction.

William Funk, a truckman at Winsted, Conn., trying to sell at auction a wagon which cost him $200 several years ago, found that nobody would bid more than $5 for it. Rather than sell it to anybody at that price, he took the wagon to the city dump, pulled it to pieces, threw the bolts in various directions, made a pile of the wheels, placed the rest of the wagon on top, sprinkled kerosene all over the heap, set it afire, and left the dump, satisfied that no one could get his wagon for a song.

Appeal to Instinct.

"That umbrella repairer has a fascinating approach."

"What is it?"

"First asks the lady of the house if she has any golf clubs to mend."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Answer.

"Why do they try so much for all persons on witnesses?"

"I suppose it is because they want to grasp them."

A Test in Eulogy.

Samuel Gompers may make mistakes, but his head is level. This was made clearer than ever by his message to the Socialists telling them that he knows what they have up their sleeve, and adding: "Economically, you are unsound; socially, you are wrong; industrially, you are an impossibility."

Paper clothes—invented in Germany under pressure of necessity—are now being sold in England and are shortly to be exhibited in this country. Before buying an American purchaser is likely to want to know what happens to hem on a wet day when the umbrella has been left behind.

The silver loving-cup presented to Franklin D. Roosevelt by Secretary Daniels is just like the loving-cups of old, with three handles to assist in its passage around a convivial board and the drinking therefrom by all present. Once more the question is suggested as to what is to be the use of the loving-cup in the future. Will friends pledge each other in soda water, or will it content them for the passing cup merely to be filled with roses and smell instead of taste? Or will loving-cups go out of fashion?

BRANDING OF SLACKERS.

It was officially reported during the war that out of nearly ten million men in the first draft only 5,000 arrests were made for failure to register and that more than half of these, after registering, were released. Now, according to the War Department, there are 173,911 men who have draft board records which, if not explained, would justify their classification as slackers. Every man who has any reason to think that his draft board record is incomplete is urged to write to Major-General Peter Harris, Adjutant-General, Washington, D. C., with a view to get his record straight and thus keep his name off the list of slackers now being prepared, which will be displayed all over the country, branding with dishonor all those who shirked or sneaked out of sight while the great host of the honorable and patriotic young men of the country were doing their duty.

Whether prosecution will follow in the case of all genuine slackers is not definitely stated, but the public branding with dishonor, which the wide distribution and publication of the list involves, will by itself be a terrible punishment. Obviously the list should be corrected with the greatest care, for to include one innocent man by accident would be deplorable.

A WASTE OF BREATH.

If an educated American Indian should announce a determined campaign of "America for the Indians" (or original Americans), he would be laughed at as a crack-brained waster of breath. Hardly less absurd is the demand of "Africa for the Africans" put forward by one Marcus Garvey who signs himself "president-general of the Universal Negro Improvement Association." Garvey, who says he is out for the "manhood rights of his race" wherever located, predicts another war in twenty years and says that then the negroes of Africa can and should rise, seize the whole continent, and put an end to the white man's domination.

More than a century ago and less there were great Indian chiefs who hoped and schemed to unite most of the aboriginal tribes and drive the encroaching whites out of this continent. No such dreams and no such initiative have been reported among African chiefs whose ambitions appear to be bounded by the small sections of the Dark Continent in which they live, ignorant in most cases of how big the continent is. Negro civilization is said to have remained stationary for 5,000 years, the negro never has to improve Africa than the Indian to improve America. Inevitably the white man stepped in and took charge in both cases. The whites will stay in and dominate Africa just as they did in America. It is folly to think of any other issue. And so far at least as material comfort and prosperity are concerned the blacks, like the Indians, will be better off under the white man's tutelage and rule. Even complaining American negroes become promptly aware of this the moment it is proposed to them that they go and colonize some wild district of the land of their ancestors.

NEW AIR RECORD.

Laura Bromwell Loops The Loop Nearly 100 Times.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York Aug. 16.—Miss Laura Bromwell was still being congratulated today for looping the loop in her aeroplane for nearly 100 times in succession, and being a new world's record for fliers. French women formerly held the record with 25 loops.

"Let me have my powder puff, please," was Miss Bromwell's first request when she stepped from her machine at Hazelhurst Field Mineola.

"How many loops did you count?"

When told 87 loops had been counted, she protested, saying she had kept tab on a hundred herself. The discrepancy was explained by the fact that she started to turn over and over, like a tumbler pigeon when two miles up before observers could see her.

NO WALK-OVER FOR AMERICANS

While They Showed Well in Olympiad Preliminaries, England and South Africa Have Some Good Runners—Finns Best With Javelin.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Antwerp, Aug. 16.—American participants in the seventh Olympiad track and field games, now under way here, faced a bright future in the athletic events, following a brilliant showing of American athletes in preliminary heats. Chances of placing winners in the 400 metre hurdles and 100 metre dash are also so excellent that the fact is being taken for granted.

In the 800 metre run there is a bit more gloom. It is regarded as extremely doubtful if the Americans, Earl Eby, Thomas Scott, T. M. Scott and A. B. Sprott, can distance the nervy and speedy Great Britain's Rudd. South Africa's entry. Rudd outclassed Eby in the preliminary yesterday.

Some satisfaction was taken, however, in a coach's statement. He explained that Eby has been suffering from a stomach ailment and had been ordered to do no more than qualify.

Hopes of Americans were pinned on Charles Paddock, of the Los Angeles A. C., in the 100 metre dash. Aside from him there will be Jack Scholz, Missouri University; M. M. Kirksey, Olympic Club, San Francisco; and Loren Murchison, of the New York A. C. Edwards of England probably will supply the sternest opposition to these speed demons.

John Murphy, Multnomah A. C., Portland, Ore.; H. P. Muller, Olympic Club, San Francisco; R. W. Lawdon, New York A. C., and W. L. Whalen, Boston A. A., qualified to represent the United States in the high jump.

The condition of the American athletes is excellent. Their recent hard feeling has blown over and the men are doing their best to win.

The Finns excelled in the javelin throw, one of them breaking the world's record, and three others beating the Americans.

MARRIED

"Is she happily married or an interior decorator?" a cynical person was wont to inquire regarding the fate of her old friends—at least she used to say it that way, and had a right to say it that way, even so short a time as a month ago, when every woman of her acquaintance whose marriage didn't turn out right promptly became an "interior decorator." All the equipment needed to be one was—well, just to say you were.

Speaking of decorated furniture, let us show you some of our original decorated furniture on ivory or French grey in all the suitable periods. A most extensive stock and at greatly reduced prices.

POLISH FACTIONS NEARING BREAK

With Russians Making Desperate Efforts To Take Warsaw Before Armistice Begins Socialists Threaten Armed Attack on Government.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Warsaw, Aug. 15.—(via London, Aug. 16.)—With the Russians closing in about Warsaw and the city threatened with immediate capture, Poland is threatened today with serious internal dissensions.

M. Dmowski, leader of the Socialists, who has gone to Posen, is reported to be preparing for a military coup to seize power.

Steps are said to be under way at Posen for the formation of a new army with the object of overthrowing the administration of General Pilsudski and establishing a new revolutionary government.

(Note: Part of the text of the cablegram was garbled but it indicated that General Rober, one of the members of the old Polish armistice commission, was involved in the revolutionary movement with M. Dmowski.)

Dmowski was quoted as saying in a speech: "We will not only drive the enemy from our country but go to Warsaw and restore order."

The roar of battle was heard on three sides today, with the Russians delivering heavy blows to the north. The roar of artillery fire was incessant.

The Polish lines southeast of Warsaw have been withdrawn. The Poles have evacuated Brody which they captured in their short lived counter offensive. A stern struggle is raging west of the city where the Russians are attacking the Polish defences north of the Vistula river. East of Warsaw, the Russians attempted to break through with shock troops.

It is evident the Russians are making a supreme effort to take Warsaw before the armistice and preliminary peace negotiations get under way at Minsk. A feeling of gloom has followed the optimism that prevailed when the armistice delegation set out for Minsk Saturday morning.

Official circles hold out the hope Saturday that "within a week we hope to flash to the whole world by wireless the news of peace."

The Polish delegation consisted of four military officers, headed by General Kulinski, a radio expert; three members of the Polish government; three international law experts; six members of the Polish diet; representatives of the various political parties and several women stenographers. The women went upon an energetic shopping excursion before they left buying scented soap and other toilet articles that are unobtainable at Minsk. All the members of the delegation carried large quantities of bread, butter, sardines and canned vegetables.

SCARED WALDEN FAMILY.

Howard Brock, Kidder Slayer, Caused Trouble on Watkins Farm.

According to Police Chief Ronk of Walden, Howard Brock,, who last Tuesday morning killed H. H. Kidder in Ellenville, caused some trouble while working in Walden on the farm of Thomas Watkins.

One morning he was called early too assist with the farm work and refused to get up. His manner at that time caused alarm and Mr. Watkins called Chief Ronk to the farm. The chief stayed at the Watkins place until the farm work was completed and then in company with Mr. Watkins went as far as Ulsterville with Brock, who said he wanted to visit relatives in Ellenville. Brock walked from Ulsterville to Ellenville.

On or about September 15th a shirt factory will open on Broadway, Port Ewen, above the garage of Merritt Every, manufacturing the "Yale Brand Shirts" for M H. Rosen & Co., 569 Broadway New York. city. E. V. McTague, production manager for Tauber, Lipton & Co. has started many factories in Ohio, Vermont and many more places and he considers Port Ewen as one of the best places among the many he has started on account of its location, size and shipping facilities. All Mr. McTague asks is the cooperation of the people of the place and vicinity, and I am sure every progressive, up-to-date citizen will heartily endorse this request not only for this gentleman but for the uplifting in a business way of Port Ewen and all suburban places. Mr. McTague is well known in New York city and has worked in the best houses having followed the shirt making business for the last 19 years working as a cutter when he was 17 years of age. He has grown up in the business and comes to us with the very best recommendations and every citizen of Port Ewen and corresponding places should cooperate with him to make this a successful venture by getting busy when employment of clean work is brought to their very doors. This is what Port Ewen has needed for years, work for people at home; and it is up to them to show how much they appreciate it and if they really want to work.

Esopus Council, No. 42, S. and D. of L. will meet in its council rooms Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. All members are urged to be present as the state officers will pay their official visit.

Movies of Hayward's Fighters.

A moving picture entertainment showing the "Hell Fighters" on their journey from Harlem to the Rhine and return will be given at the A. M. E. Zion Church, Franklin street, on Tuesday, August 17, at 8 p. m. The picture is one of much interest showing the old 15th Regiment "over here" and "over there." The production "From Harlem to the Rhine" says the New York Age, is due largely to the efforts of Col. William Hayward and the negro can point with unbridled pride to this screen production featuring the colored soldiers in the world war. The Ushers' Club will serve ice cream, cake and soft drinks immediately after the entertainment.

GOOD CROP OF N. Y. POTATOES

Commissioner Hogue Finds It Will Be Much Larger Than In 1919—Corn Still Very Backward—Wheat In Good Condition—More Apples Except Baldwins—Peaches Poor.

Commissioner of Agriculture George E. Hogue stated today that preliminary reports received by the division of agriculture indicate that with a few exceptions New York state crops for 1920 will compare favorably with last year's crops and will be above the general average. Commissioner Hogue said that while the reports are not complete no great falling off as predicted early in the season except in wheat is shown.

While in June and early in July backward weather and shortage of farm labor caused the prediction that crops would come below the average, favorable July weather and faithful and extraordinary efforts on the part of farmers to overcome the labor shortage it appears will bring production up to if not above the normal mark.

Reports from many counties indicate that winter wheat was not equal to the crop of last year. This is undoubtedly due to a decreased acreage and not to a reduced yield per acre. The total production for New York state last year was 10,428,000 bushels. This total will not be reached this year, but the decrease will not be great.

The potato crop will be large, and will exceed that of last year by a considerable margin. Several sections of the state report increased crops of potatoes. The total potato production last year is given as 39,567,000 bushels.

Corn was backward early in the season and is still backward, little improvement being shown in July. The total production of corn last year was given as 35,260,000 bushels. The production this year will be well below that figure, unless most favorable weather obtains for the next few weeks.

Beans appear to be better than normal and an increase in the total production is indicated, though it may not be great. The total production of beans in New York state for 1919 was given as 1,450,000 bushels.

Cabbage is in good condition. Indications are that the crop will hold up to about the normal mark.

Hay was lighter than in years in some sections and will show a decrease in total production for the state.

The rye crop is good, and will come up to the average.

Reports from western New York and from the Hudson river section as well as from other parts of the state promise an unusually large increase in the apple crop with the exception of Baldwins. In some sections it is reported the increase is between twenty-five and thirty-five per cent on other varieties.

Peaches are doing well in western New York, but not elsewhere in the state.

NEW VIOLENCE IN IRELAND

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Aug. 16.—Many persons were killed and injured in a new outbreak of disorders that was reported from Ireland today.

One soldier and four civilians were killed in a clash at Clonbanic, County Cork, when a crowd of civilians attempted to seize an airplane.

A civilian was killed during a fights between soldiers and excursionists near Lurgan, according to a Central News dispatch from Dublin. Sinn Fein leaders accuse the soldiers of precipitating hostilities by opening fire upon the excursionists.

OPEN AIR SERVICE

Well Attended Sunday—The Rev. Cole Again To Speak.

The seventh of the series of open air Gospel services was well attended on Sunday evening. 300 people were present and 14 automobiles were so parked that those in the cars could easily hear the speaker. The Rev. Arthur S. Cole gave a very strong and forceful address. His subject was "A Politician's Opportunity." The scripture lesson was taken from the 19th chapter of Luke, and Mr. Cole used Zacheus in illustration of those who have extreme difficulty in becoming a Christian. His voice was clear and he proved to be a most excellent outdoor speaker. Harold S. Brigham rendered two solos and these were much appreciated by the audience. A still larger attendance is expected this coming Sunday evening when Mr. Cole has again consented to be the speaker. These meetings have proved to be helpful and inspiring and these services are open to all.

Most Ancient "Town Meeting" in World Still Runs Community Affairs in India

Far from Britain's Houses of Parliament Members Squat on Ground and Solve Villages' Problems of Public Works, Poor Relief and Administration of Justice.—"Debates" Sometimes Last Three Days.

WHAT the New England town meeting was to the beginning of representative government in the United States, so is the panchayat to ancient and modern India. The figure panch, or five, is sacred in India. "There is God in the panch," runs an old Hindu proverb. Originally each little village had its panchayat, or board of five, which met under the headman.

The matters the panchayat discusses in the cool evenings under the banyan tree of the village are those of public welfare such as education, poor relief, watch and ward, the repair of irrigation ditches and the administration of justice.

Sometimes the case is a knotty one and three successive nights, until the dawn calls to prayer and work, are devoted to threshing out the problem. In modern times the village council often has a membership of ten or a dozen, including the headman, accountant, watchman, boundryman, superintendent of the tanks and waterditches (an important post in arid India) the priest, the schoolmaster, astrologer, carpenter, blacksmith, barber and cowkeeper. All these members perform their duties for the village as a whole.

A survey of India made by the Interchurch World Movement shows that this form of local government, which lost much of its power with the coming of the British, is returning to vogue as a democratic form of local self-government. It is through the panchayat that the Interchurch, in which are co-operating the evangelical group of America's Protestant churches, will have to work largely in its program of educational, hygienic and other progressive endeavor for India.

The training of native workers is to be a feature of the Interchurch Movement's mission work, and it is through such typically native institutions that the world's people are to be approached. Modern civilization must present its case before the native leaders of every land. And when the panchayat decides that pipe lines and a gasoline engine are better than ditches, and that churches and schools are better investments than an ignorant population with no moral sense, the missionary will make progress.

Improved on Nature.

For a great many years graphite used in making lead pencils was obtained almost exclusively from mines in Cumberland. When the best quality was exhausted (early in the nineteenth century) the manufacturers turned their attention to the utilization of the accumulations of waste from cuttings of the original masses which they finely ground and mixed with varying proportions of clay. In this way they were able to produce pencils of 14 degrees of hardness and softness, making them superior to those formerly made from the pure graphite, which was never uniform in hardness and color.

CONDENSED CLASSICS

FAR FROM THE MADDING CROWD

By THOMAS HARDY

Condensation by Alfred S. Clark

Thomas Hardy, probably the most searching and profound novelist of our own time, was born June 2, 1840, in Dorsetshire, England. In his youth he read much and cherished the dream of becoming a poet, but he studied and practiced architecture as assistant to a London architect, winning a prize for design. The fine proportion and solidity of structure in his novels were probably somewhat due to his architectural training. For five years he assiduously practiced writing poetry, but when he was twenty-seven he turned definitely to fiction. His first story was accepted two years later, but upon the advice of George Meredith he decided not to publish it. His first novel, "Desperate Remedies," appeared in 1871.

During the next 25 years he published 14 novels and two volumes of short stories.

"Under the Greenwood Tree" (1872) he "never surpassed in happy and delicate perfection of art." In this and his next novel, "A Pair of Blue Eyes" (1873), begins to show itself that strain of deep irony which is so potent throughout Hardy's writings.

"Far From the Madding Crowd" (1874) was his first popular success. In it is revealed Hardy's superb power of depicting nature as symbolic background for his characters, an organic part of the action of his story. This was the earliest of what he called his novels of character and environment, which included "The Return of the Native," "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," his masterpiece, and "Jude the Obscure." Not until he was fifty-eight years old was his first volume of verse published and he was sixty-four when the first part of his stupendous epic poem, "The Dynasts," startled the literary world.

BEFORE Bathsheba Everdene came to Weatherbury as mistress of the manor-house, time seemed to have forgotten the village. The smock-clad shepherds in the thatch-roofed cottages might have been, as far as appearances went, their own ancestors of four centuries before. Little happenings seemed tremendous. The pulling down of a hovel was a stirring event; the transformation of a well into a pump shook Weatherbury like a revolution.

The stir of the great world without, its romance and passion and tragedy—these came to Weatherbury with Bathsheba. There was a new arrival to be discussed, a great-boned, ruddy-faced shepherd, Gabriel Oak, who beat out a fire that menaced the wheatricks and who remained to work for Bathsheba. Fanny Robin, a servant, disappeared, lured by a soldier's red coat. These were things to agitate the heads of the rustics who gathered at nightfall in the old malthouse to drink and to moralize.

Their heads would have wagged even more had they known that Gabriel Oak, only a few weeks before, had been his own master, and had vainly urged Bathsheba, then a penniless maiden, to marry him. Things that had seemed commonplace enough had abruptly reversed their places in the world. A man had died in Weatherbury; a dog had driven to death a flock of sheep. These were but the inevitable tragedies of life and yet the one had suddenly made Bathsheba an heiress; the other had driven Gabriel out upon the highways to seek work. Chance or fate had kindled a fire, Gabriel had saved the wheat, and the two lives that had been flung so far apart were brought near again.

The pain of seeing another win her whom he loved would be intense but Gabriel preferred even this life where he could not see her. He knew that this must happen. Bathsheba was young, beautiful, wealthy, but rarer than these was her high spirit. "She was the stuff of which great men's mothers are made. She was indispensable to high generation, hated at tea parties, feared in shops and loved at crises." This spirit, however, was to flame more brightly later, after her impetuosity had plunged her into the crises that were to prove her worth.

In all Weatherbury, one man alone was heedless to her charm. This was William Boldwood, "the nearest approach to aristocracy that this remoter quarter of the parish could boast of." She resented being ignored and, in a moment of thoughtlessness, sent him a valentine that fanned into flame passions that Boldwood had hidden from the world.

At the shearing supper held in the great barn, Gabriel could see that Boldwood's suit was prospering. He was madly in love, she no longer discouraged him. Neither Bathsheba nor Boldwood were thinking then of a song she had sung earlier that evening, when "the shearers reclined against each other as at suppers in the early ages of the world." Yet afterward how often were they to recall with a shudder the words that Bathsheba had so lightly sung:

For his bride a soldier sought her,
And a winning tongue had he,
On the banks of Allan Water
None was gay as she.

That very night the soldier came into her life, came as she walked about the farm to see that all was secure. Her skirt was caught as she trod fearfully through a growth of high firs; she heard the mutter of a man's voice. A dark lantern revealed a spur entangled in her skirt, a young and slender man clad in brilliant brass and scarlet. It flashed like a gleam of romance in gray days, that scarlet coat that was afterwards to be remembered as so sinister a portent.

The man was Sergeant Troy, a light-hearted scoundrel whose ready flattery sounded sweeter in Bathsheba's ears than the stammering longing of Gabriel or Boldwood. He courted her romantically, wooing her with his sword. She stood, a few days later, in a hollow of ferns and about her flashed his whirling, edged weapon, slashing so close to her that she could hear its sharp hiss as it carved out in the air her lissome figure. And when he turned to leave her, he stooped swiftly and kissed her on the lips.

Gabriel tried to warn Bathsheba but she scorned his reproaches. So he bore silently with his grief and he did not tell her that Troy had beguiled little Fanny Robin away from Weatherbury. Boldwood, whose heart had never before beat faster at a woman's approach, could not so control his anger. He shouted maledictions upon the man who had robbed him of all that had made life joyous. His madness precipitated that which he most dreaded, Bathsheba's marriage to Troy.

The hasty marriage led swiftly to sorrow, inevitably to tragedy. Troy celebrated the wedding by a revel in the barn where he and all the jovial rustics were soon hopelessly befuddled. Gabriel dared not drink with them. The creeping things of the night and the huddled sheep had warned him of the nearing storm and in the fields the high ricks of wheat and barley lay uncovered.

The moon vanished and the wind subsided; on far horizons baleful fires fluttered. The mutter of distant thunder rolled into a sharp rattle. The flashes grew bright as he worked to protect the grain. Then Bathsheba was with him and their laboring forms were outlined in black by the green snakes of fire that darted venomously earthward. As she trembled with fright, Gabriel felt her warm arm tremble in his great, sheltering hand. She was another man's wife; she did not love him; but there was solace in the strange ways of fate that had brought her nearer to him than when her heart was free.

Tragedy came when Fanny Robin crept home to die. Her body, with that of her child, was brought back to the house where she had worked. Standing by the coffin, Bathsheba learned that Troy had never loved her as he had this girl, who had borne death and shame for him. He fled from Weatherbury and word was brought to Bathsheba that he had been swept out to sea and drowned.

The seasons rolled on and sorrow gave to Bathsheba's face a seriousness that added to her charm. Boldwood dreamed again and he was made happy by a promise, although six years must pass before its fulfillment.

To celebrate his joy, he planned a Christmas-eve party, more than a year after Troy had disappeared. And it was on this night that Troy chose to reappear, striding like a spectre among the merrymakers. As he advanced upon her, Bathsheba stood like a stricken thing, half-convinced that delusion had enthralled her. But there was nothing ghostly in the rough command that he shouted at her, nor in the brutal grip that he took upon her arm. Then only did she stir, but she could not speak. A strangled scream was heard, then a deafening roar. Some eyes were upon Troy, pitching forward and never to rise again; others upon Boldwood, standing with a smoking gun in his hands.

Not until the next August, long after it was known that Boldwood was to be imprisoned for life, was Bathsheba able to walk as far as the village street. Fate had been hard to her. Of three men who had loved her, one had been killed by another who would never stride on the daylight again. And now word had come to her that Gabriel—honest, sturdy Gabriel—whom she had found the one man in the world who did not fail her in her need, was leaving her. She sought him in his humble cottage and he confessed that he was going because people were coupling his name with hers. "Such a thing as that is too absurd—too soon—to think of, by far!" she cried. When he agreed with her that it was "too absurd," she insisted that she had not said that, but "too soon." Even then minutes clicked away before Gabriel could realize that what he had so long sought was to be his.

Their lives, in calm and storm, had been so close that, after the wedding, the rustics marveled at his easy way of speaking of "my wife." They agreed that he did not say the words as chillingly as might a man who had been married twenty years, but that that improvement would come later. Gabriel laughed aloud at that and Bathsheba did not now laugh so readily as had been her wont when first she came upon the simple folk of changeless Weatherbury.

A Drop of 90% in Net Revenue Within Five Months

OUR increased expenses this year have caused a drop of over 90% in our net revenue in the State of New York within five months. Here are the figures taken from our books:

	REVENUES	EXPENSES	NET REVENUE
January	$5,671,631	$4,759,789	$911,842
February	5,517,416	4,826,354	691,062
March	5,768,697	5,237,402	531,295
April	5,771,333	5,404,101	367,232
May	5,743,412	5,653,977	89,435

In the face of such a serious decrease in net revenue and the certainty of further increases in our costs during the remainder of the year, new telephone rates were necessary. Without their aid we would fail this year to meet our financial obligations with the result that the development of our system would be curtailed, and we would have great difficulty in keeping our service up to standard.

The situation demanded immediate action and we have acted just as you would have acted if the telephone business were your business. We have filed new rates to enable us to meet the economic conditions that exist today.

Even with the new rates the cost of telephone service to you will not be increased in anything like the proportion that our operating expenses have advanced. Nor will the increase in your telephone bill compare with the rise in the cost of general commodities.

We ask you to pay a few cents more a day to make it possible for us to maintain adequate telephone service. We believe this is a reasonable request.

NEW YORK TELEPHONE COMPANY

The United Master Butchers, in convention in New York, have started a campaign to educate the housewives of the nation in the purchasing of cheaper meat cuts. This, according to the master butchers, is the only effective way to reduce the present high prices. Michael Kelly of St. Louis, president of the association, is holding a butcher's chart which will be used to demonstrate to the thrifty housewife how to distinguish the various cuts and how to buy cheap and wholesome beef.

Irish Travel Stops.

The tourist resorts of Ireland—the Lakes of Killarney and Glengarriff—have suffered greatly during the war and the resumption of normal conditions, with freedom of travel for pleasure, will be required to bring back their old-time prosperity. So Queenstown and, to a smaller degree, the city of Cork has been affected by the entire cessation of the extensive passenger traffic to and from the United States. Queenstown was the principal port for Irish emigration to the United States, and the change in that respect is highly significant. There are more young men in Ireland today than there were for very many years before the war. Emigration, which for the ten years ending March 1, 1911, averaged 35,908 from all Ireland, fell in 1917 to 2,111, and in 1918 to 980 natives of Ireland. Embarkation of emigrants and others from Queenstown which amounted to 29,883 in 1913, and 21,450 in 1914, stopped altogether in November, 1914.

Snakes Friends of Farmer.

A correspondent who is interested in snakes as well as flowers and birds and the other more popular things in nature writes that he has gratifying success in locating snakes by merely listening for their rustling in the dry leaves. If one's ears are specially trained for snake noises there is no good reason why this method should not be really practical. Unquestionably the majority of wood wanderers are almost blind in this matter of snakes. Unless we almost step on him we seldom know that he is lurking near at hand and remaining very still in the hope that he will not be noted. All our snakes are practically defenseless. They are not only inoffensive and timid creatures, but also highly useful friends of the farmer. Possibly the baby snakes are in less danger than the adults. The little fellows are less conspicuous, and, as before noted, they can hide in very small refuges.

Sir Thomas Lipton still wears the smile that won't come off. Here he is seen with Mae Murray and Lucy Fox, film stars, who sailed for Europe on the Olympic recently. Sir Thomas was aboard the vessel bidding adieu to a party of friends who were here to see the yacht races. The noted sportsman will tarry in New York awhile, he said.

DEMOCRATS START FIGHT FOR OHIO

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Columbus, O., Aug. 16.—With the speech of Governor James M. Cox before the Democratic state convention, the Democratic fight for the state of Ohio will open here tomorrow. Upon the results of this fight, many political observers profess to think, may hinge the success of the Roosevelt-Cox ticket in November.

Though Democratic leaders are unanimous in predicting success for their party they freely admit they have a fight ahead of them. Their candidate for governor, S. Donohue, of New Philadelphia, who at present holds the position of state auditor, has never been called upon before to face a serious contest, having been previously elected in years when Wilson carried the state. His opponent, Harry L. Davis, Republican, on the other hand, was three times elected mayor of Cleveland, a city which is normally Democratic.

SUFFRAGISTS CALM

As Time Approaches For Tennessee's Verdict.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Nashville, Aug. 16.—Both sides were outwardly calm today as suffrage neared its final battle in the special session of the legislature.

Suffragists claimed to have 22 of the 69 members of the lower house pledged to vote for the resolution, which the senate passed on Saturday.

"Many of these pledges are in writing," said Miss Sue White, "and I have them in my possession. This claim was disputed by the antis. Backed by the influence of Speaker Seth Walker, they claimed to have a sufficient number of votes to block ratification.

The senate resolution will be introduced at 2 p. m. An effort will be made to force the measure to a vote, but this was considered improbable today.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 16.—The stock market was again subjected to pressure at the opening of business today with offerings of all the leading stocks at substantial concessions, but this supply was absorbed and before many minutes passed a firmer tone developed. U. S. Steel opened down a half at 86⅝, with a slight rally, and Baldwin, which opened at a loss of 1 point at 104¼, quickly moved up to 105. U. S. Rubber sold off 1⅜. Pan American Petroleum yielded 1⅛ to 81⅝ and then rallied to 81¼. Texas Company sold down to 44⅝, but rallied to 45¼.

After the rally followed the opening declines, the market became inactive to a pronounced degree U. S. Steel, after rallying to 87¼, sold off to 86⅝. Invincible attracted attention by dropping 1⅜ to 32½ on a few transactions. Texas Company exceptionally strong, moving up over 1 point to 46. Mexican Petroleum, after its rally to 157¾, reacted to 155⅞. Pierce Arrow developed weakness, falling over 1 point to 37⅝.

Although business continued small in volume during the afternoon the stock market showed a strong tone with some issues in active demand. Attention was attracted to Royal Dutch because of foreign buying which brought that stock up over 3 points to 79¼. Retail Stores, after selling at 62½, advanced to 64. Crucible Steel rose 4⅜ to 136¼. Baldwin Locomotive moved up from 104⅝ to 105⅜ and U. S. Steel rallied from 86⅜ to 87¼

The market closed steady; government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds steady.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Chopsticks Easy to Manipulate.

It is easy to learn to use chopsticks. Pencils or pencils make perfect substitutes for practice. All that is necessary is to remember that the sticks are in effect extensions of the fore and second fingers, and to begin with short-length reaches and as practice makes perfect extend them gradually to their full length. Raked beans are good to begin with, and from these in very short time the novice will pass on to boiled rice and be able to roll it into a neat ball, pick it up and "swash" it in soya or sugar as one to the manner born.—Exchange.

Mahogany.

Sir William Raleigh introduced mahogany into England in 1597. He had used the timber to repair one of his ships. While the wood found many admirers at that time, it did not become of commercial value until 150 years later. Different varieties of mahogany are found in Africa, Japan, United States, Philippine Islands, India and Australia.

DUTY OF EX-SERVICE BOYS

They Should Assist in Maintenance of Law and Order, Says National Adjutant.

For the benefit of the comparatively few isolated communities in which there is noticeable a tendency to give credence to misinformation emanating chiefly from the ranks of alien agitators and other enemies of 100 per cent Americanism, it is deemed advisable to refer to an editorial in the Chronicle, Cincinnati, O., official organ of the Ohio Central Labor Council and "Local voice of the American Federation of Labor."

In its issue of May 29, 1920, this publication quotes the preamble to the constitution of the American Legion, and adds:

"The above is the preamble to the constitution of the American Legion and to our minds it certainly sets forth a principle that every true American, whether he be a world war veteran or not, can consistently subscribe to.

"Recently an international officer, returning from a state conference in Cincinnati gave vent to the expression that the members of his international union would not be allowed to join the American Legion. This to our mind is baby play. The attitude of the American Legion toward organized labor in the state of Ohio, and locally as well, has been clearly defined and has been approved by the Central Labor council. It is claimed that at least 40 per cent of the boys who went to France and across the water were trade unionists. If this is true, then the proper thing for them to do would be to join the American Legion, and if ever the occasion arose when there would be a criticism of the labor movement, they could be of service by explaining our real purposes, thereby eliminating some of the antagonism to us which comes from misunderstanding only. There need be no fear by trade unionists of the American Legion. We believe they are right and that they are fair, especially their leaders, and, as we said above, we would recommend to every trade unionist who is eligible to membership that he can best protect his interest and the wage earner by getting in line, and place himself where he properly belongs."

In this connection, the following excerpts from a recent letter of Franklin D'Olier, the Legion's national commander, to Thomas Goldingay, state adjutant of New Jersey, appear appropriate:

"The American Legion has taken a very positive stand that, as an organization, it should never take any definite part in any dispute between the employer and the employee, or between capital and labor. This policy should be adhered to strictly by the national organization, state organizations and by the posts as well.

"In any controversy, the interest of the Legion is confined to that of the maintenance of law and order and without taking part on either side. In case the situation should arise where life and property are endangered, it is the duty of a member of the American Legion to perform his full duty as a citizen, according to his own conscience and his own understanding. Because of his military service, the ex-service man has a very keen sense of his responsibility as a citizen, and I am quite confident that he will always be alive to this responsibility. Therefore, in case of a contingency as above mentioned, it is his duty to assist in the maintenance of law and order by acting as an individual and offering his services to the duly constituted authority for the maintenance of law and order.

"There is nothing to prevent the individual members of the American Legion, as an individual, from taking either side in such a controversy, but the American Legion, as an organization, should not do so."

LEMUEL BOLLES,
National Adjutant.

SEEK NAMES OF NEXT OF KIN

Community Posts to Ascertain Addresses of Those Expecting Bodies to Be Sent Home.

While the American Legion is trying to perfect arrangements with the war department to assist in assuring relatives of prompt notification following the arrival of remains of America's soldier dead from overseas, word has reached national headquarters of the Legion that a body of one of these heroes recently lay unclaimed on a Hoboken pier for nearly a week with the next of kin totally ignorant of its arrival.

According to members of a Legion post in the fallen soldier's home community, no notification of the body's arrival was sent to relatives by the war department. The Legionnaires, it is said, learned of the case through indirect channels and telegraphed department headquarters of the Legion in New York city, which arranged for shipment of the body to its final resting place. The Legion post took charge of the funeral and the remains were interred with appropriate military honors.

When the plan to return certain bodies from overseas was first announced, the American Legion endeavored to make arrangements with the war department to receive notification of shipment in order that national headquarters of the Legion might write direct to the next of kin and offer the services of the local posts in assisting with the funeral arrangements in case relatives desired this. But the government officials decided they could not give out this information and compromised with an offer to circularize the next of kin to the effect that the Legion would be glad to co-operate in extending honor to the memory of these heroes.

In a bulletin forwarded to each of the more than 9,000 Legion posts throughout the United States, Lemuel Bolles, national adjutant, asks these community posts to ascertain the names of men of their respective localities who died overseas and whose bodies are being returned, and notify Legion national headquarters of the names and addresses of the next of kin, in order that it may take steps to prevent, if possible, a recurrence of an incident such as that recently reported from New York.

News dispatches say that in certain cases it has been impossible to locate the next of kin after a body has arrived, and the government has interred such remains in one of the national cemeteries. The Legion has offered all its resources to the war department to assist in preventing blunders of this kind.

"Star Spangled Banner" Is Official.

The adjutant of a post in Santa Barbara, Cal., recently received a letter advertising what is claimed to be "the official march of the American Legion" which "has just been made available for player pianos." The post official forwarded the letter to Legion national headquarters, saying he understood "The Star Spangled Banner" was the only existing musical composition recognized by the Legion. National officers of the Legion say the Santa Barbara Legionnaire's point is well taken and warn members against being deceived by such circulars. It also is probable that the player roll corporation will be asked to explain why it sent out such a letter.

GET FORECASTS BY WIRELESS

Kansas Agricultural College Makes Arrangement to Furnish Farmers With Weather Probabilities.

The Kansas Agricultural college has announced that it will furnish the weather forecasts to every Kansas farmer by wireless telegraph. The farmer will be required to install an amateur wireless set with which to receive the forecast. These sets cost about $35 each and can be operated by any person. They cannot be used for sending messages for any considerable distances but they will receive the powerful messages of the big plants. The forecasts are to be sent out at 9:55 each morning under a standard code and on the wave length of 375 meters, short enough for any amateur set to take. This wave length is also long enough and the college plant is powerful enough so that the message will reach every point in the state. The forecast will be sent at the rate of 18 words a minute and then repeated at 10 words a minute. The service is to be given free to every farmer, high school, or to any other person or institution having a wireless set. The high schools in the small communities are to distribute the forecast to the banks and stores and to the telephone companies. The knowledge of the probable weather is of considerable importance to farmers during the harvest and haying season, and to stockmen during the winter, for they can make preparations for feeding and sheltering stock upon knowing of an approaching storm.

PLAN MORE OSTRICH PLUMES

South African Raisers of the Birds Believe They Can Largely Increase the Supply.

An effort is being made by South African ostrich farmers to increase the plume quills of ostriches, and Professor Deverden believes this can be done by as much as 25 per cent, but W. P. Pycraft, the great English naturalist, is skeptical.

The number of plumes from each wing averages 36, and occasionally runs as high as 42 in the South African species and 30 in the North African. The latter is the larger bird and its bones are denser. The Grootfontein School of Agriculture is trying by proper mating to breed a race of 42 plume birds.

Professor Pycraft writes in the Illustrated London News that the ancestor of the ostrich undoubtedly possessed the power of flight, when the wing quills of the hand numbered 16, while the secondary feathers, attached along the forearm, probably did not exceed 26. This was the original inheritance and it can never be increased, especially now that the whole wing has degenerated into a mere wreck of its original self.

There are now about 1,000,000 birds on the African ostrich farms and the value of their exported feathers is about $15,000,000.

Overcoming Plant Disease.

Announcement by scientists at Cambridge university that it is now possible to breed disease-proof plants, following a long series of immunizing tests applied to grains, potatoes and other growths, ought to shed a ray of light upon the world sorely vexed by food problems.

Potato disease alone has cost this country untold millions of dollars. If this one article of food could be protected against the destructive fungi that attack it so persistently, a solid food basis would be assured. As it is, potatoes, which should be the cheapest and most plentiful food, now fluctuate from moderate prices to prices that are absurdly high.

The checking of plant disease is second only in importance to overcoming the diseases that attack humanity. At this time of food scarcity any progress that can be made toward conserving the world's crops will be doubly a blessing.—New York Tribune.

League Covenant in Esperanto.

In the case of most international conventions a version in one language, customarily French, is taken as the original text. The treaty of Versailles, however, stipulates that the French and English texts shall have equal authority. But a perfectly equivalent translation of anything more complex than the multiplication table is impossible and already controversies have arisen over supposed discrepancies in the two versions. So the Esperantists of Paris have published their "Kontrakto de la Ligo de Nacioj" with the suggestion that by making Esperanto the official language of the league all disputes would be avoided.—Independent, New York.

Electricity in East Prussia.

According to press reports from Konigsberg, the provincial board has approved a plan for the uniform supply of electric power for the province of East Prussia. The plans and installations, the completion of which will require ten years, will, through the development of water power, insure East Prussia's electrical supply independently of the coal question.

Airplanes for Sighting Fish.

Airplanes which were used to spot submarines may now be employed to sight schools of fishes. The method has been employed at Toulouse, France, with success. An airplane discovered a big bank of fishes and immediately gave the signal to some fishermen, who hastened to the spot and made a great catch.

OLD CLOCKMAKER BUILT WELL

Remarkable Timepiece in English Cathedral Said to Have Been Made About Year 1322.

Glastonbury, a town planned in the form of a cross and situated in the very center of Somerset, England, is full of ancient associations dating back, in legend and otherwise, to the early years of the Christian era. Early writers mention that Ynyswytrya, the ancient name of Glastonbury, was the place where the first church was built in which the gospel was preached. St. Philip, so the tradition is, sent Joseph of Arimathea in the year 60 with 11 disciples to Britain to preach the gospel. Averagus, the Roman viceroy, remarking that they had journeyed far and were of modest demeanor, gave each a hide of land, which was the origin of the Twelve Hides of Glastonbury.

One of the most interesting connections with Glastonbury is the ancient clock, which was at one time in the famous Glastonbury abbey, but is now in the north transept of Wells cathedral, Somerset, a few miles away. It is said to have been made by a monk named Peter Lightfoot about the year 1332. The dial plate is six feet six inches in diameter, and is contained in a square frame. The outer circle is divided into 24 parts intended to represent the 24 hours of the day. The numbers are in old English characters and mark hours from 12 noon to midnight, and thence to 12 midday. A large gilt star points to the hour. An inner circle shows the minutes, and a small star moves around the circle every hour. A third circle gives the age of the moon, and on a plate in this circle the phases of the moon are shown. There is also a smaller circle in which is a female figure, having around it the motto, "Sic peragrat Phoebe."

Above the dial plate is a paneled tower, around which knights on horseback revolve in opposite directions every hour on the striking of the clock, which revolution is meant to represent a tournament, a popular amusement in the middle ages. A figure, called Jack Blandiver, which is seated some distance from the clock, at a higher elevation, strikes with its heels every quarter of an hour against bells—two strokes at the first quarter, four strokes at the half hour, six at the third quarter, and eight strokes at the hour. It can also be made to strike with a hammer on a bell the number of the hour. Connected with the works of the clock, on the outside of the cathedral, two knights in armor strike with battle axes the quarters on bells. The works of the clock have been renewed; the original works are now in the patent office of the South Kensington museum fitted up and kept in motion.—Christian Science Monitor.

Probably Not.

After she had come home from the party in the four-wheeled cab, little Ethel was telling her mother all her adventures.

"And did you enjoy the ride home, dear?" asked mother.

"Oh, it was very thrilling!" exclaimed the child. "Down at Main street the horse suddenly stopped and backed right on to the pavement, and the cabman had to get down and drag it back on to the road."

"Yes, dear," said Mother wisely: "it must have been what they call a jibbing horse."

"That wasn't what the cabman called it," replied Ethel, thoughtfully.

New York, Aug. 16.—Labor organizations of this city, for the present at least, will not follow the lead of the Chicago Federation of Labor which has gone on record as favoring a general strike of workers of the United States, if the United States gives military aid to Poland against Soviet Russia.

At the American Federation of Labor headquarters today it was stated that no such action had been taken or was contemplated.

"It was not even suggested," said Hugh Frayne, an American Federation of Labor organizer.

Other labor organizations have similar replies.

CAT RAISED FOXES

Puss Proved Good Foster Mother to Valuable Cubs.

Fur Farmer Was Afraid to Take a Chance, So He Called in Tabby and the Difficulty Was Solved, to His Advantage.

There are perhaps 10 or 12 of the famous fur farms of Alaska. One of them, situated in the Tannana valley, a mile and a half from Fairbanks, consists of ten acres of cleared land, the greater part of which is covered with pens in which the animals live. From a distance the fox farm looks like a huge chicken yard with walls of woven wire and hencoops of various sizes inside. Each pen is 50 feet long, 8 feet wide and about 10 feet high.

The wire is of tough steel and is sunk about four feet in the ground, and then bent so that it runs inward under the ground for about two feet to prevent the foxes from digging out. At the top the wire has an overhang of two feet to prevent the captives from climbing over. Each pen has a kennel, the entrance to which is a chute or a wooden pipe a foot square.

Only one pair of foxes live in each pen. They are very timid and must be handled carefully. Most of the fox farmers will not permit strangers to enter their property for fear they will frighten the animals. Some foxes, however, become so tame that strangers can handle them.

The fox babies are the size of kittens, and have long, bushy tails, little sharp noses, and eyes that sparkle like jet. One litter of foxes was, it is said, mothered by a cat. There were three of the babies, each of which, when grown, was worth from $500 to $1,000. Their mother was so nervous that the farmer feared she might kill her young; and so he had them taken away from her and given to the cat in place of her kittens. The cat had adopted them and played with them as if they were really her own. For such emergencies it is necessary to have cats about a fox farm.

Because he would not pay a high price for a cat one man in eastern Canada lost five little foxes that might have proved worth a small fortune. The fox mother had died and the owner of the only cat in the vicinity declined to sell her for less than $500. The unreasonable price angered the fox farmer and he refused to pay it.

The foxes are fed with salmon, moose meat, horse meat, rabbits, carrots and turnips. A common feed is rice and rabbit cooked together in a stew. One farm feeds 16 rabbits and 15 pounds of rice a day to 52 foxes. The stew is given cold morning and evening. The foxes come out of their kennels, seize the food, carry it inside with them and afterward return for more.

The land, kennels and machinery of the farm near Fairbanks cost $15,000 and the breeding animals $37,000. There are always about 200 animals, foxes, martens and others, and only two men are needed to care for them.—New York Evening Post.

Maternal Impressions in Canaries.

An interesting contribution to the voluminous literature on the subject of "maternal impressions" is made by Dr. W. F. Schrader, of Fort Wayne, Ind., in Clinical Magazine for December, 1919. Dr. Schrader has been breeding canaries quite extensively for eight years. Until last July no crippled or deformed chick had ever been found among his nestlings. At that time daily flights of an army airplane over the city invariably threw the birds into a state of excitement and terror, and during this period twelve eggs were laid. Only seven of the eggs hatched, and every chick of the seven was deformed; three had no anal vents, two had extra pairs of wings, and two had twisted legs held at full length beneath the bodies. The same parent birds have since raised two broods each, and there was not a single crippled or deformed bird among them!—Scientific American.

Maple Sugar Industry.

In 1919 the maple trees in the province of Quebec yielded more than 12,000,000 pounds of sugar and nearly 1,500,000 gallons of sirup, and the estimated value of these maple products reached a total of $6,396,535. The sap, one might say, goes on flowing in packages, tins and bottles, and never more widely than at present, for eight years ago the woodlands of the province were contributing 2,000,000 pounds less of sugar and about 400,000 fewer gallons of sirup; one leaves it to some industrious statistician, with nothing better to do, to estimate the number of griddle cakes thus provided for, or the dimensions of the imaginary Brobdingnagian griddle cake that would require all that maple sirup at once.

Cristobal a Growing Port.

The erection of an expensive office building at Cristobal, canal zone, by British shipping lines, is evidence of the growing importance attached to this port. This is the fourth building for shipping offices in Cristobal, the others being those of American, French and Italian lines.

Grouping the Population.

The population of this country is divided mostly in four groups, consisting respectively of those who make and sell automobiles, those who buy and use them, those who produce moving pictures and those who pay to see them shown.—Albany Journal.

Large, Solid Head.

Mother sent me to get a head of lettuce, and told me the good ones would be solid and hard. I carefully picked out a large solid head, and asked the grocer how much that head of lettuce cost. He answered: "Excuse me, but that is a cabbage."—Exchange.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By Mary Graham Bonner

THE LITTLE TURKEYS.

"Now," said Daddy, "the hens were thinking of laying again, for they hadn't hatched out their eggs, and while most of the time they gave eggs to the farmer for himself and his family and to sell, in the springtime they liked to hatch out some of the eggs into little chickens. That was right, and that was what suited everyone.

"It Pleases Me."

"But Mrs. Turkey was sitting on 24 eggs which in another week would hatch out into little turkeys. She had been sitting for three weeks so far.

"She had been sitting and watching all that was going on. She had seen in the distance the fight that Mr. Woodchuck and Mr. Skunk had had about their holes.

"She had seen the winter onions coming up of their own accord. They had come up as soon as the snow was off the ground, which they always did.

"She had talked to Mr. Rooster, who had frozen his feet the winter before in the snow bank, but who had forgotten now about the pain and aches he had felt in his feet then. Now he merely talked of the way the visitors to the farm admired his dainty way of walking about.

"'Cock-a-doodle-do!' he said to Mrs. Turkey. 'They speak of the dainty way in which I walk. Of course I must walk that way, for it is the only way I can walk, because of the accident that happened last year.

"'But it pleases me to think that folks quite admire the way I walk and they say: "Look at that rooster picking his way so very daintily over the ruts!" I like to hear them say that.'

"Mrs. Turkey had talked to the cows who had walked by on their way to and from milking. She had spoken just a little to the cows, for they had walked slowly down from the pasture and up to the pasture slowly in the evening, and in the morning as though they had the spring fever and couldn't walk much faster.

"Of course Mrs. Turkey knew it was because they had no great desire to hurry. They were lazy and they had the spring fever all of the year! They always took things easily and as if they were quite tired and lazy and didn't want to move any more than they had to or do any more than they had to.

"She had seen the old bull named Jack—a beautiful old bull who was the leader of the other bulls. They liked his leadership so much.

"She had seen Bobby, the farmer's youngest son, go by so many times. Lately he had taken with him his favorite black cat and the kittens he had kept for himself. The other kittens he had given to a neighbor.

"She had seen the cow who had gone near, and smelled the skin of another cow which was drying over a fence, for the other cow had been sold for meat which was needed by many people.

"But the old friend had gone up, and as she had smelled of the skin of her friend she bellowed in a lonely, sad fashion and had walked sorrowfully away.

"Most of the things Mrs. Turkey had looked at were all pleasant, though, and she had seen everyone being so happy in the springtime and in the early summer time.

His Favorite Black Cat.

"When Mrs. Turkey's little ones were born she taught them the things that all good turkey mothers teach their young, how they must keep their feet dry for a number of weeks so they will grow up into fine and strong turkeys.

"She watched them closely and saw that they were well fed and nourished, that they were kept healthy and strong and free from colds, and that they were able to grow up into fine and strong turkeys, because they were well looked after when they were little.

"And oh, as Mother Turkey watched them she said to herself: 'What a Thanksgiving turkey you will be, my dear,' as she pointed to one. 'And what a Christmas turkey you will be. And do not be sad, because you will be used for meals.

"'It is a very great honor. A very great honor indeed! Turkeys are especially honored in this way!'"

Changes Price.

"When water becomes ice," asked the teacher, "what is the great change that takes place?"

"The greatest change, ma'am," said the little boy, "is the change in price."—Our Dumb Animals.

Clinching Argument.

The little girls were preparing to play house, and had difficulty deciding the question, "Who will be the mamma?" Finally one said, in a tone of finality, "But, Mary Elizabeth, I've got to be. Don't you know I'm older than you are?"

SCENT CORRUPTION.

Suffragists Ask Cox To Investigate Tenn. Conditions.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 16.—Suffrage leaders today asked Governor Cox to investigate "corrupt influences" now at work against ratification in Tennessee.

Warning has been sent him that the fight is lost unless immediate action is taken to circumvent these influences. Information received by the National Women's Party has been laid before him. Senator McKellar and other Democratic leaders on the ground yesterday has informed him that the danger is great the ratification resolution will be brought before the house this afternoon and defeated.

"The situation is frightful," said Alice Paul this morning. "According to our information representatives of the Louisville and Nashville Railway appeared in Nashville yesterday and following their activity, men who were pledged to us deserted by the wholesale. If the resolution comes up today we have not the slightest chance.

"What is back of the Louisville and Nashville lobby I do not know."

KINGSTONS WIN ON COFFEY'S HIT

"Babe" Ruth, with his 42 home run hits this season, may be a big one in the eyes of the baseball fans all over the country but he is no bigger man in their eyes than Hub Coffey is in the opinion of the fans that were on Athletic Field, this city, Saturday, when in the eighth inning while the score in the game between the Kingstons and Clermonts of Newburgh stood 1 to 0 in favor of the visitors he made a three-bagger. The three-bagger came in at right time because the Kingstons had three men on bases and the three runs scored off the hit not only jumped the Kingstons two ahead of the Clermonts right then and there, but won for them the game. Williams was on the firing line for the home team with Westfall on the receiving end, while Phelan and Havens was the battery for the Newburgh team. It was a pitchers' game throughout. The score by innings:

Signs of Weather Changes.

If a horse is lively without apparent cause, it is a sure sign of cold weather in the near future, but if he stretches out his neck and sniffs it is a sign of rain. If a cat sneezes or sits with its back to the fire it will rain. If she washes her face during a frost it will soon thaw. If she scratches the wall or the leg of a table vigorously the wind will be very high. If asses bray it is another sign of rain.

The Balsam Fir.

Canada balsam, as the balsam fir is sometimes called, is one of the beautiful evergreen trees. The needles of this tree, which are a deep, glistening green above and a lovely silver color below, are about three-fourths of an inch long.

ONEONTA PRISONER IS NOT BERGDOLL

State Trooper's Picture of Escaped Draft Evader Differs From That Carried By Department of Justice Agents.

The man recently arrested at Oneonta by state troopers who suspected him of being Grover Bergdoll is not the draft evader. Special Agent Samuel Gorvick of the department of justice so declared after visiting the prisoner.

One of the surprising features of the incident is the fact that the picture sent out to the police departments and provided the state troopers as of Bergdoll, bear no resemblance whatever to the pictures of the real Bergdoll with which Gorvick, the special agent, is provided and which he said are excellent. In fact, the suspect looks like the picture with which the troopers are supplied, but nothing in the other pictures could possibly be imagined to resemble the suspect.

The prisoner was held on the charge of being a state tramp.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Egan of 439 Abeel street announce the engagement of their daughter, Agnes R., to Eugene B. Carey.

Miss Minnie Schoonmaker was delightfully surprised Friday evening by a number of her friends at her home, 100 Hoffman street. The evening was enjoyably spent playing games and several very pleasing vocal selections were rendered by Miss Hornbeck. Those present were the Misses Mae Fields, Elsie Da Silva, Sophie Hine, Margaret Overbaugh, Lillian Schlecht, Elizabeth Ewel, Frieda Eschenbacher, Dorothy Cook, Hilda Cook, Elise Puffpaff, Lulu Topp, Margaret Kilmer, Florence VanGaasbeck, Florence Hornbeck, Belle Flynn, Ethel Roberts, Jane, Mary, Ruth, Helen and Minnie Schoonmaker, also Mrs. Irwin. A buffet luncheon was served, and all left voting Miss Schoonmaker a royal entertainer, and wishing her many happy birthdays to come.

Kachigian-Simonian.

Miss Mary Simonian and George Kachigian were married by the Rev. Gregory Mabry at the Holy Cross Church Sunday at 12 o'clock noon. The bride's wedding gown was white satin covered with chiffon lace, with hand embroidered veil, and she carried a bouquet of American beauty roses. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Maud Kaprilian and Miss Mary Minisian. The bridegroom was attended by Nishan Kaprilian and his cousin, George Kachigian. The bride was given away by her uncle, Sarkes Kalooстian. The groom served throughout the war with the United States army, is a member of the American Legion, Kingston Post, No. 150, and is a valued employe of the Charles Ramsey Company. A number of friends relatives and guests attended from Albany, Boston and New York. Miss Simonian recently arrived in the United States from Armenia, where she was a childhood friend of the groom.

House Party at Rose Home.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Rose were the hosts at a pleasant house party over the week end at their home on St. James street. The guests included the present entire family. Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Rose of Yonkers, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford C. Rose of Newark, Mr. and Mrs. William P. Rose of Cambridge Springs, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. Alvarez D. Rose of Kingston, and Miss Jeannette Louise Rose, the only grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Rose. The "Baby" ran the party. She is the three and a half year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Rose. Will Longyear was called in on Sunday noon to photograph the gathering. This is the first time that the entire family has been together since the boys were students in Kingston Academy. Alvarez, the youngest son, is in business with his father in this city. The other boys have followed other lines of occupation since leaving school and college. Harry is one of the auditors for Armour and Company in the New York city district. He is the oldest son. Will, the second son, has followed advertising and newspaper work, since graduating from Cornell University in 1911, in Chicago, New York, Erie, (Pa.), Washington, (D. C.), and Cambridge Springs, (Pa.) At present he is editor and owner of the "Enterprise," in the celebrated mineral water town of Pennsylvania. Clifford, the third son, after receiving his doctor's degree with eight year's work in chemistry at Cornell University, was with the General Chemical Company as a research chemist, later with the Nitro Powder Company, of Kingston, after which he became half owner of the Kingston Chemical Company for a short time. Following that, he associated himself with college friends in New York city and formed the Orr Chemical Company of Newark where he worked out a formula for making Valerian Salts (formerly a German product.) The company was very successful. Clifford is now third owner of the Sterling Chemical Company which is perfecting a process for making a substitute for camphor. Fred Lockwood, also a former Kingston school boy, is a third owner with Dr. Rose in the Sterling Chemical Company. Many friends, former pals of the boys, stopped in at the Rose home on Saturday and Sunday. To them all A. D. Rose, the head of the family, said that he had had considerable experience in paying out money to schools but that in his opinion the schools of Kingston were the best that any of his boys had ever attended.

Merry Little Sunshine.

Visitor—I just looked in to cheer you up a bit and I'm very glad I did, for I met the doctor going out and he says you are worse than you think and may not recover.—Boston Transcript.

"BEN" FRANKLIN NOT FIRST

Contention Made That New Hampshire Had the Earliest Periodical in the United States.

I claim that the oldest periodical in the United States is the New Hampshire Gazette, published weekly at Portsmouth and founded in 1756, the next in age being the Weekly Mercury, published at Newport, R. I., and founded in 1758. "Benjamin Franklin did not found the Saturday Evening Post or any other paper in 1728. The Pennsylvania Gazette was founded in 1728 by Samuel Keimer, who did not make a financial success of it and sold it to Franklin. It was first called The Universal Instructor in All Arts and Sciences and Pennsylvania Gazette. In his autobiography Franklin says of Keimer and the Gazette: 'He began his paper, however, and after carrying it on three-quarters of a year, with at most ninety subscribers, he offered it to me for a trifle; and I, having been ready for some time to go on with it, took it in hand directly; and it proved in a few years extremely profitable to me.'"

Samuel Atkinson and Charles Alexander combined the subscription lists of the Pennsylvania Gazette and the Bee and issued the first number of the Saturday Evening Post on August 4, 1821, and the Gazette and the Bee went out of existence forever. Thomas Cottrell Clarke was the first editor of the Post. All old newspaper directories give 1821 as the year the Post was established.

BOSSY HAD DELIRIOUS "JAG"

Results of Imbibing Barrel of Home Brew Disastrous to Morals of Sedate Old Cow.

Milk, that mild and healthful beverage beloved of the young, usually held in light esteem by the antiprohibitionist, but—

It happened not long ago—since Jan. 16—in the mining camp of Sand Coulee, Montana. A "Bohunk" miner's wife, apparently seeking to keep her lord and master in good humor, mixed a barrel of home brew guaranteed to develop a real kick, and set it out in the yard to ferment. A neighbor's cow happened along and tasted.

One taste led to another, and finally the barrel was empty. But not so the cow. She was most decidedly and satisfactorily "full." Anyway, bossy was fighting drunk, and she started out to clean up that mining camp, and succeeded almost completely. But she met her Wellington in Deputy Sheriff Adolphson. The cow charged the sheriff, who dodged.

Then bossy suffered from the hallucination that has afflicted humans under similar circumstances. She gave evidence of seeing a multitude of Sheriff Adolphsons, and finally tiring herself with aimless charges fell down and asleep. When she awoke next day her "jag" was over. But it is reported that her milk sold at a premium for several days among the strong men of the camp.—Wall Street Journal.

Got Her Pension.

Mary had attended Sunday school for the first time. Upon returning home she was asked by her mother: "Mary, what did you do at Sunday school today?" To which Mary made the immediate reply: "Oh, nothing much. They took me down in the basement of the church and took my [illegible] away from me."

Tintinnabulating Tambourine Doomed To Play Minor Salvation Army Role

Tambourines at Salvation Army Headquarters, New York City. (Insert) A Salvation Lassie.

THE America of the old fashioned Americans is gone: it's all ended. Some still cling to primrose hopes, but with the recent announcement that the Salvation Army lassies have given up their tambourines for street collecting—pshaw! what's the use?

It started with the buffaloes. Some New York traveling men, dressed in the latest spring styles, ventured out West. The buffaloes took one squint, lay down on their spinal cords, closed their eyes, groaned and died.

And then there came about the passing of another beloved American institution—the front yard. Home life hasn't been the same since. With the advent of skyscraper tenements and flats, front yards vanished. Now the heads of households, when they come home at night worn out with arguing golf at the office all day, have to sit on the front door steps, or go to the movies.

Suspenders have gone, too. And gone are the 30-cent Sunday table d'hote dinners, and springtime sassafras tea, and celluloid collars and six-for-a-nickel stogies, and family surreys, and all-day suckers. And the family albums have given way to picture scrap-books of blond movie queens! What a life!

And now the time-honored role of the Salvation Army lassie's tintinabulating tambourine is doomed. You will find these once popular musical collection boxes piled up by the hundreds at Salvation Army Headquarters in New York City.

The lassies, heartened by the country's approval of their overseas war service, hope it will not be necessary hereafter to waste effort in continuous tambourine solicitations. For a year they have devoted all the time thus saved to actual slum work and general service to all distressed humanity. Except for Thanksgiving and Christmas they now appeal to the nation but once a year for financial approval. The 1921 Appeal is scheduled for May 10th to 20th.

The lassies will still beat the tambourines in the Salvation Army praise services, however. They quote a number of Psalms as authority. Here is Psalm 149.3:

"Let them sing praises unto Him with the timbrel and harp."

The "timbrel" is the ancient name for the modern Salvation Army tambourine. Well, good-by, old tambourine! We'll miss your cheering tinkle and the [illegible] edging smile of your mistress [illegible] you did your bit!

Perplexed.

Two corpulent old gentlemen on the green with putters in their hands and their golf balls a few feet from the cup. One of them is scratching his head in a perplexed fashion. "Jones, supposing I put this in! Who in blazes is going to get it out?"—Life.

The Last Word.

"The 'last word' is the most dangerous of infernal machines."—Douglas Jerrold.

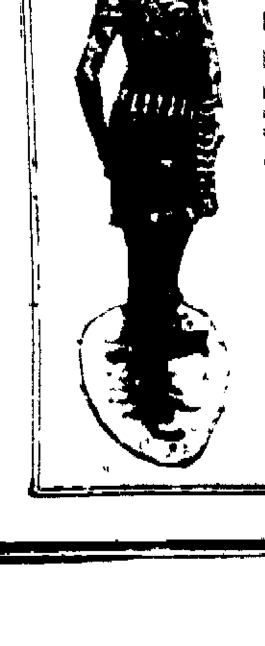

His Reading of Prov. [illegible]

Little Clarence had been having trouble with the boy next door. "I hope you remembered that a soft answer turneth away wrath," said his mother. "I did," replied Clarence. "I threw a rotten apple at him."

Simple Patience.

It is not necessary for all men to be great in action. The greatest and sublimest power is often simple patience.—Horace Bushnell.
